WHO SHOULD ATTEND

IER seminars and conferences are of great interest to trade unionists, employment lawyers, academics and students, equality officers, legal officers, NGOs and charities needing up-to date information.

CPD, NPP AND EPP ACCREDITATION

All IER seminars and conferences attract credit hours under the Law Society's Continuing Development Scheme and the General Council of the Bar's New Practitioners' Programme and Established Practitioners' Programme.

The Institute of Employment Rights was established in 1989. It is an independent organisation acting as a focal point for the spread of new ideas in the field of labour law. In 1994 the Institute became a registered charity.

Members of the Institute include the general secretaries of most trade unions, many of the leading law academics and practitioners and a number of highly distinguished experts from other fields.

We aim to make a constructive contribution to the debate on employment law, using historical analysis, international comparisons and consideration of the economic and social implications of present and future policies. By doing so we hope to develop an alternative approach to law and industrial relations.
